RESEARCH EXPERTIZE

Main research interests

Myroslava Lendyel's research interests include the problems of local self-government, local democracy and regionalism in Europe, international security in the region of Central Europe, Europeanization of public administration in post-socialist countries.

The scientist developed a methodology for the analysis of local political institutions, processes and cultural orientations of citizens in countries that are undergoing a stage of systemic transformation, a methodology for evaluating local political regimes, and built a holistic concept of local democracy as a regime of power management in territorial communities.
